

Two Tarpon In 45 Minutes; Cameron Men Wield Tackle

Two Tarpon in 45 minutes and photographs to strengthen a good fish story.

F. S. Lesovsky and Bismark Horstman have returned from a ten days trip to Galveston. Mr. Lesovsky established a record catch of two Tarpon in 45 minutes. In all he caught four. They averaged in length from 5 to 6 feet. The Tarpon were caught off the jetties and near the Houston ship channel.

Mr. Horstman thinking little of the sport went out to watch his companion, Mr. Lesovsky, play with the deep sea fish. He liked the sport and purchased some tackle and before long had landed two tarpon measuring some five to six feet in length.

Mr. Lesovsky has been fishing at Galveston for about 15 years. In a news item in the Galveston News mention is made of the catch in 45 minutes. They returned to Cameron Friday, making the trip in the Essex coach of Mr. Horstman.

O. D. Baker for Negro Woman in Gause Election

The ballot attributed to O. D. Baker, former member of the Legislature from Milam county and recent Klan candidate for Comptroller of Texas, as introduced in evidence in connection with the testimony of Dinah Ferguson, aged negro woman of Gause, who received two votes for school trustee, had written across the bottom of it the names of Dinah Ferguson and G. D. Critchfield.

The ballot was identified by the poll list and tally sheet and shows a vote cast by the former legislator for the negro woman for school trustee.

Aunt Dinah on examination as a witness said the ballot cast by her had been altered to show that she had voted against Miss Hazel Thomas and she repudiated this ballot as a forgery.

On the ballot cast by O. D. Baker the name of Miss Hazel Thomas was scratched. Mr. Baker was not placed on the stand having left the county on Sunday night. Aunt Dinah Ferguson, an old slave negro, received two votes according to the returns.

INDIAN ARROW HEAD FOUND IN EXCAVATION.

A flint rock arrow head believed to have been used by an Indian many years ago has been unearthed in the excavation for the foundation for the new R. L. Batte Oil Mill. The arrow head is 4 inches in length but has no spike end. Some who have seen it say it may have been a part of a prehistoric knife fashioned from stone by dwellers. The blade or arrow is at the Herald office and was sent by J. C. Martin who received it from workmen on the foundation.

SIMMS OIL COMPANY SPUDS IN 3000 FOOT TEST

ASK A CUT IN FREIGHT RATES ON FEED STUFF

COMMERCIAL CLUB JOINS DEMAND FOR RELIEF TO FARMERS HERE.

In a letter to the railroad commission of Texas Secretary Webb of the Chamber of Commerce joins in the demand for reduced freight rates to Central Texas where feed stuff may be shipped in to save the stock on the farms. The letter follows:

"In view of the very severe and disastrous drouth which obtains in Central Texas which practically precludes the possibility of raising grain and feed-stuff, the Commercial Club, at its regular meeting July 20th, by motion unanimously adopted, directed me to write your honorable body to request that it do everything possible consistent with its duties and powers to bring some relief to our people, and particularly to our farmers, in the area indicated by securing a reduction of rates on the commodities named from the railroads which serve our territory.

"Your information relative to the degree and extent of the drouth and the acutely adverse conditions which are resulting and will continue to result from it are much greater than ours, hence anything suggested by us in this regard would be gratuitous. We might say, however, that with every possible favorable circumstance, with everything done which it is possible for anyone or any organization to do in the way of mitigating the distress of our people the fact remains that there will be widespread deprivation and suffering.

"The Cameron Commercial Club and the people of Milam county will appreciate any effort you may make in this matter and if your efforts bring the result desired all of the people will be grateful that this agency of government in a time of great need and urgency turned its endeavors and attention to the relief of the people whom I am sure, it pleases it to serve.

"Thanking you in anticipation of a serious consideration of this urgent request. We are

Yours respectfully,

Boy Scout Work Is Character Investment Says Rev. J. P. Love

Rev. J. P. Love in a sermon Sunday at the Episcopal church talked on the work of the Boy Scouts and in general a discussion of the problem of raising boys to manhood in the way they should go.

This sermon produced here in full is a vital summary of parental responsibility and contains admonishing truths that will be beneficial:

"And He increased in wisdom and in stature and in favor with God and man." These words were written concerning a Jewish youth who became the most famous character in all history. Jesus of Nazareth.

Very recently it has been my great privilege to live for ten days in the big out of doors with 130 red blooded American boys. 40 of them were our own Cameron youths; the most of whom in a few short years will become citizens of this thriving community.

They will marry and bring up families just as most of us have done; they will shortly choose a profession—some will be merchants some farmers—others will be lawyers or physicians—some will be mechanics—perhaps there will be an artist or a minister—or a great statesman developed from among them.

These boys ranging in age from 12 to 17 years were from all sorts and conditions of home life—some came from families possessing wealth and influence—others from homes where the wolf often looks in at the door.

Not a boy in the universe had the chance of choosing his parents in his present station in life, they are (continued on page four this section)

PLAN SOCIAL CENTER AND $15,000 BUILDING

Plans are now being formulated for the construction of a building to cost $15,000 or $16,000 to be a part of a social center and civic center.

Determination to build such a center for Cameron is inspired by the Sokol entertainment at Buckholts last Sunday. William Stuzinek says that while no definite program has been arranged a number of men in a meeting Thursday agreed to push the matter and as soon as papers for incorporation are filed the work will begin.

The building, park and grounds to be established would not be established for any particular class but will be public and may be used by everyone.

Witness testified that Key wanted to know if he had been told anything about a breach between Gaston and Cunningham. Witness said there is feeling between Cunningham and Gaston and asked counsel if he should tell about this feeling. Counsel told witness detail was unnecessary. Witness said Gaston or Cunningham did not ask to be relieved but that the board appointed Hatter to take the place of Cunningham. Witness said he was told Cunningham did not want to serve with Gaston. Witness said Cunningham had not been officially notified of his appointment by the board. MURDER CASE HEARING SET FOR WED. JULY 29

Wednesday July 29 is the day set for the examining trial in the case occurring at Buckholts last week in which Billie Hill was cut to death in a road fight and John Hill, the father, severely slashed, and Keet Blankenship seriously injured when beat with an automobile jack.

The examining trial will be heard before Judge Ed. F. English in justice court. Wide interest attaches to the case because of the sensational tragedy in which human life was taken.

Rev. J. P. Love met his appointment to preach for the Episcopal congregation in Rockdale on Sunday, visited a sick parishoner and arrived at the Country Club shortly after noon in time to do full justice to the chicken dinner served by and for the American Legion. Rev. Love is deservedly popular with members of the Legion.

COURT RULES AFTER 74 FORGED BALLOTS ARE TAKEN FROM BOX.

Seventy-four forged ballots and forty-one in the same hand writing were found in the ballot box from the April election in the Gause school district, in district court Tuesday at the conclusion of examination of witnesses.

Judge Watson before whom the case was tried read the tabulated results as made when the forged ballots were counted against those for whom they were originally counted in the returns made by the school board at Gause, and rendered his decision which declared Miss Hazel Thomas and W. H. Bailey elected and G. D. Critchfield and D. W. Key defeated. S. R. Cochran and G. R. Varner were the other two elected.

In the original return filed by the election board Miss Hazel Thomas was credited with 62 votes and Mr. Bailey was credited with 52 votes.

Evidence introduced proved the issue to have been the Klan coupled with protest against the appointment of W. C. Hatter as principal of the school. Anti-Klan forces won the election. The Klan attempt to defeat the ballot as expressed by the citizens has been exposed and disclosed as fraudulent.

Miss Thomas Sues.

The case went to trial Monday morning at nine o'clock after about 3 months of litigation in which the Klan element represented by E. A. Camp and W. A. Morrison took the case to the court of civil appeals at Austin where it was sent back for trial. Miss Hazel Thomas, originally declared defeated, sued for her place on the board claiming election on the basis of 139 affidavits of voters who said they voted for her. She was credited with only 62 votes.

Witnesses Expose Election Fraud

the election. Witness said 250 ballots were ordered printed and that Hatter came to Cameron and purchased them. Witness said that Hatter was principal of the school; that he was not an applicant for the place but that some of the people had urged his appointment to succeed himself. Witness on question from O. L. Kidd said Gaston was elected a short time after the election, in fact at a call meeting. Witness said he received the election returns from Hatter, Gaston and McCown. Witness said the box was delivered to him about 6 o'clock on Saturday afternoon of the election. He took the box to his home. An envelope containing returns and some unused ballots were on top of the box. The box was sealed with a top sheet from a writing tablet and wrapped with a copy of the Cameron Enterprise. Witness said the board met at 10:30 at night to canvass the returns. There was a show at the school house and the board waited until the show was over. Witness said the returns were canvassed on same day of election but had never canvassed this early before. The regular meeting was on the following Monday with only Sunday in between. Witness said returns and ballots were in a shoe box, described as above. When asked if anyone but the trustees were present when the vote was canvassed, witness said that O. D. Baker, came in the room. Witness said objection was raised because Mr. Baker was not a member of the school board. Witness said Baker refused to leave and said "he was a citizen and had a right to be there." Witness said he took envelope containing the returns and did not open the ballot box. Witness in response to question said he did not know for sure whether the box was tampered with or not but felt that no one touched it. Witness said the box was placed on the floor near the table where the canvas was made. Witness was asked if Baker touched the box and replied he did not. Witness took the box home and 3 days later placed it in vault of Guaranty State Bank of Gause for safe keeping. As president of the board he said he asked for a committee to come and get the box and take it to the bank. Box was in a closet in the home of witness and was found there when the committee came for it. Witness said the committee was composed of Dennon, Pitts, Key and Jones. The box was wrapped, witness said, in a copy of the Cameron Enterprise and sealed in four places with sealing wax. Witness here identified the box placed before him by Penn Wolf clerk of the court. Witness identified his signature on the box. In response to question Smith said: "Things were getting pretty hot," and he wanted to dispose of the box. Box was delivered to J. H. Thomas cashier of the Bank. Witness was present when the box was delivered to Sheriff Blaylock on order of the court.

Blaylock Called.

Sheriff Blaylock, called to the witness stand testified he went to Gause under order of the court and went to Smith's house to see about getting the box. He went to the bank and got the box which was delivered to him by Miss Myrtle Thomas. Witness asked Smith if the box was the same and witness said Smith declared the box was the same. Blaylock brought the box to Cameron and here identified it as the same. He gave the box to Penn Wolf, district clerk.

Penn Wolf Testifies.

Penn Wolf, district clerk was called to the stand and testified he issued the writ of possession that was executed by Blaylock to get possession of the box. Here the order of the court was offered in evidence. Witness testified box was delivered to him on May 20. He put same in safety deposit vault at the Cameron State Bank for safe keeping. Witness said there were two keys to box and vault could not be opened unless both keys were used. He had one key and the bank the other key. Witness said box remained in vault until Monday July 20 when it was brought into court. Witness said B. J. Matocha of the bank delivered the box to him.

B. J. Matocha next called to the witness stand said he was in custody of the deposit vault at the bank and testified about the two keys; that no other keys would open the box. Witness said the box containing the returns was placed on the inside of an envelope box and he did not see it.

With the conclusion of this testimony the court adjourned until 1:30 to wait for J. H. Thomas of Gause who was called as a witness.

Camp Represents Gaston.

At this closing of the morning session E. A. Camp, attorney for H. H. Gaston who has been indicted by the grand jury in connection with the election case, asked permission to examine the returns and to protect the interests of his client. Permission was granted by the court.

Wanted to Stop It.

When the court convened in the afternoon J. H. Thomas testified about receiving the election box, thus concluding proof of its existence since released by Mr. Smith as president of the board.

E. A. Camp in a verbal pleading to the court just before the District clerk cut the strings that bound the election box said that if it developed that the ballots were not signed by the election judge it was the duty of the court to stop the proceedings and order another election. This he said is the law. Ballots not signed are illegal, he said. O. L. Kidd in reply to Mr. Camp in addressing the court said that while the law was plain in that respect no such pleadings were before the court. The judge promptly ruled that the count of the ballot should proceed. Judge Watson appointed Penn Wolf, T. S. Henderson, Jr., W. B. Smith and E. A. Camp to count the ballots.

Great Excitement.

Great excitement prevailed in the court as the strings were cut and the copy of the Cameron Enterprise removed from the box. The crowded court room was a mass of standing people and the judge asked them to be seated. The judge smiled as he added "I want to be liberal with you but I want you to be liberal with me."

J. W. Pitts testified as a member of the committee that went to the home of Willard B. Smith to procure the ballot box for deposit in the bank vault at Gause.

Ku Klux an Issue.

G. R. Varner, elected trustee, was next called to the stand. In response to question by the attorney said that the issue in the campaign was Klan and anti-Klan. Witness said that Key and Critchfield were considered Klansmen. Witness said that the majority of the board was Klan and that objection was raised by a larger number of people to W. C. Hatter. Witness said that it was the general feeling that Hatter would not be re-elected if the Ku Klux were removed from the board sufficient to give the anti-Klan control. He said that the anti-Klan forces voted almost as a unit with the possible exception of eight or ten. Witness said that Key and Critchfield resigned after contest was filed. Witness said the name of Critchfield was not printed on the ballot but was written on by voters. Witness said that W. C. Hatter and H. H. Gaston are considered Ku Klux but could not say about McCown.

Wanted to Beat Klan.

S. R. Cochran another member of the board elected at the election in April testified that the campaign aim was to defeat the Ku Klux on the school board. W. C. Hatter as principal of the school, witness said was a contention in the election, being opposed by the anti-Klan. Witness said if anti-Klan won Hatter would not be re-elected. The issue was clearly drawn and witness said anti-Klan voted one way with the possible exception of eight or ten. Witness testified that Key and Critchfield resigned following the suit. Witness said that the board was composed of 5 Klan and 2 anti-Klan and the board sought to elect W. C. Hatter at a called meeting. Witness said he objected to the irregularity of it. Witness said that Hatter left Gause after the filing of suit, filing his resignation with the board.

Open Box.

The election box containing the ballots was opened at 2:15 p. m. following the testimony of Mr. Thomas. W. B. Smith was called to the table and there witnessed the opening of the box and testified that the same piece of tablet paper was glued to the box. Witness found a corner unglued but said this might have been the condition of the box when he received it.

After the box was opened and the vote counted it tallied with the returns made and testified to by Mr. Smith. When it was shown that Key and Critchfield were elected according to the tabulation attorneys for Miss Hazel Thomas called for voters who made affidavits that they voted in the election for her. In all 139 made affidavits and many gave their testimony identifying their ballot.

Great excitement prevailed as the box was opened and the votes called by District Clerk Penn Wolf.

Space does not permit individual testimony of the 139 called to the witness stand but mention is given of a few who testified. Up to adjournment time Monday night 27 witnesses had been examined and 26 said their ballots had been changed. The name of C. D. Critchfield appeared to have been written on the ballots in the same handwriting and with a blue pencil. Many witnesses testified they used a black pencil. All witnesses testified they scratched Key and voted for Miss Thomas, W. H. Bailey, S. R. Cochran and G. R. Varner.

Ely First to Testify.

J. A. Ely was the first witness called. As witnesses were called they were given the ballot credited to them on the tally sheet. Mr. Ely testified the ballot credited to him had been changed so as to show he voted for Critchfield. The name of Miss Thomas was scratched on his ballot. Witness testified the ballot was a forgery. Ely testified he saw O. D. Baker at the polls.

John Thompson, second man to be on the stand, is a negro. When shown the ballot witness said: "Nah, Boss, dis ain't ma ticket." He voted for Miss Thomas and W. H. Bailey and the names were scratched and the name of Critchfield written on.

Key Voted for Miss Thomas.

D. W. Key, reputed Klansman and a candidate in the election had filed with Miss Thomas an affidavit that he voted for her, was called to the stand. He repudiated the ballot shown him as a forgery saying he had voted for Miss Thomas and not for Critchfield.

J. T. Folmer and L. S. Cunningham both said their ballots were not the same as they voted them.

Miss Thomas on Stand.

A ripple of excitement swept over the court room as Miss Hazel Thomas went to the witness stand. When shown her ballot as credited to her on the poll list she said it was not as she had cast it but had been changed. The change made on her ballot showed that she had voted against herself as well as Mr. Bailey.

When the court opened Tuesday witnesses were examined. When Miss Myrtle Thomas, sister of Miss Hazel Thomas, was called she testified her ballot had been changed to show she had voted against her sister. She voted for her sister, she said.

Mrs. W. H. Bailey testifying said her ballot had been changed to show she vote against her husband who was a candidate in the election and credited with only 52 votes, in the returns filed.

Mrs. S. R. Cochran placed on the stand testified that Mrs. Cochran stand to testify as to her ballot said that it had been altered to show she voted against her husband for trustee. She voted for Mr. Cochran.

L. S. Cunningham recalled to the stand said that he knew nothing of any breach between himself and H. H. Gaston.

R. T. Littleton was the last witness to testify and found his ballot forged. He wrote the name of Critchfield to establish the forgery, as did a number of others who testified.

Baker for Aunt Dinah.

O. D. Baker who cast ballot 34 voted for Aunt Dinah Ferguson for school trustee and scratched the name of Miss Hazel Thomas according to his ballot introduced in evidence in connection with the testimony of Aunt Dinah. She testified that she was not a candidate for the office and solicited no votes. She received two votes. She said her ballot was forged to show she voted against Miss Hazel Thomas. She voted for Miss Hazel Thomas.

In all 74 witnesses testified that their ballots had been changed from the way they voted them. Forty-one of the ballots had written on them in the same hand writing according to the testimony of H. M. Hefley, president of the Texas State Bank & Trust Company, the names Critchfield, G. D. Critchfield or Glen Critchfield. Mr. Hefley was summoned to testify as a hand writing expert.

At the conclusion of this testimony the court then instructed a count of the ballots again. When the count had been completed the results were announced as follows: Miss Hazel Thomas 127; S. R. Cochran 139; G. R. Varner 138; W. H. Bailey 117; D. W. Key 86; G. D. Critchfield 70. It was pointed out that only 74 witnesses testified out of the 139 who made affidavits and if the remainder had been placed on the stand the vote of Miss Thomas would no doubt have been large enough to give her first place on the ballot as was predicted by the anti-Klan forces in the election.

W. M. Cobb, editor and publisher of the Cameron Enterprise called to the stand testified that 250 ballots were printed for the election; that the ballots were ordered by D. W. Key and delivered to W. C. Hatter. Mr. Cobb said that only one order was received for printing ballots and the ballots shown in the box were the same as the ballot retained by him for the job ticket.

At the conclusion of count Judge John Watson read the results to the court room and rendered a decision declaring Critchfield and Key declared and Miss Hazel Thomas, W. H. Bailey, S. R. Cochran and G. R. Varner elected.

District Legion Convention Held In Cameron

ADJUTANT GENERAL IN TALK BOOSTS WORK HERE

CONVENTION ENDORSES POSITION OF COMMANDER ACCEPTING OFFICE.

Legion men from the Sixth Congressional District in session here Sunday in a resolution endorsed the endowment fund being raised for the benefit of disabled veterans and also passed a resolution endorsing the administration of Mark McGee, state commander and adjutant general.

Work of the Legion men in the Sixth District provides for meetings to be held when designated by the chairman of the district and the meeting in Cameron was attended by Legion men from various sections of the District.

O. M. Boynton of Corsicana, president of the District presided at the meeting. Adjutant General Mark McGee who is also state commander of the Legion was present and delivered an address to the ex-service men. State Adjutant Folbre of Dallas was in attendance and with him National Committeeman Streeter of Dallas.

A large delegation from Corsicana was present; from Rockdale and other sections.

Dinner was served to the ex-service men at the County Club where the business session was held at 2 p. m. John Odell of Hearne, 17 year old high school youth, who won the National American Legion essay contest last year, was presented with a medal at the meeting here.

In his address General McGee who has been censured as one of the state officials for accepting the place as adjutant general in a district Legion meeting at Stamford, said that his acceptance of the place was dictated by the belief that he could better serve the Legion of the State.

Executive committeeman Streeter of Dallas, presented the endowment fund plea of the Legion and a resolution endorsing it was passed by the convention.

President Boynton said that no more district meetings would be held until after the State Convention in Fort Worth. The Sixth District he said would maintain headquarters at the convention.

The entertainment proved one of the most delightful ever held by the Legion in Cameron. The Legion is grateful for the use of the Country Club and in a resolution thanked the club for the use of the building.

A troupe of Boy Scouts under the direction of Rev. J. P. Love assisted in the success of the entertainment. Mrs. Wm. Rogers, Mrs. A. F. Mitchell, Miss Jeff Lewis, Mrs. J. C. Tucker, Mrs. S. A. Cottle, Mrs. W. D. Denson, Mrs. L. F. Gohmert and other ladies assisting, spread and served the dinner. The ex-soldiers thanked the ladies in a resolution.

A number of invited guests included Confederate Veterans and a number of citizens from Cameron were present.

In addition to the resolutions passed by the convention the committee was authorized to draw a resolution recommending the establishment of a publicity bureau by the state department, and also a resolution commending the talent of John Rodell for his winning essay.

These resolutions were not drawn for lack of time but will be prepared in the near future.

The following are resolutions passed by the convention:

RESOLUTIONS.

Thanks.

Whereas, the Cameron Country Club has kindly extended to us the use of its building and grounds; and J. F. Brown, the building contractor, has permitted the use of the building and has prepared same for our use; and whereas, the ladies of Cameron have served to us a delicious dinner and have graced the occasion of our meeting with their presence and whereas, the Boy Scouts under the leadership of Rev. J. P. Love, assisted in the success of the entertainment, now therefore, be it resolved that we, the sixth District Convention of the American Legion Department of Texas, do extend our most heartfelt thanks to the ladies of Cameron, to Edwin Hardy, Post No. 9, to the Boy Scouts, to the Cameron Country Club, to Mr. Brown, and to all others in any way connected with our entertainment; and we direct that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the unimaged of this meeting and copies be furnished to the press for publication.

State Commander.

Whereas, Mark McGee, our Department Commander has given the Department a most progressive and efficient administration during his incumbency of the office; and,

Whereas, Her Excellency Miriam A. Ferguson, Governor of Texas has wisely appointed our Department Commander to be Adjutant General of the State of Texas; and

Whereas, he has accepted the office to the mutual benefit of both the State and Legion.

Now therefore, we, the sixth District convention, American Legion Department of Texas, do hereby unqualifiedly endorse General McGee's acceptance of the position of Adjutant General and his administration as both State Commander and Adjutant General; and we do hereby commend the policy of our Governor in selecting our State Commander to be Adjutant General.

TOM S. HENDERSON, Jr.

Endowment Fund.

Whereas, Mr. Streeter representing the National Committee has forcefully and clearly presented the reasons and the necessity for the American Legion Endowment fund, and has rendered great service to the Legion and to humanity in general in his works for said fund: Now therefore, we, the Sixth District convention, American Legion Department of Texas do hereby endorse the American Legion Endowment Fund and pledge our united efforts toward the raising of the fund quota of the Department.

His Own Death Notice

Mike was working diligently in his potato patch when he saw the postman coming up the road, bringing a black-edged envelope.

Mike became uneasy, and showed it. "Hope it's not bad news," said the postman.

"It is that," said Mike, looking at the address. "It's upset I am entirely. My brother, Pat's dead. I can tell by his handwriting."—From Everybody's Magazine.

Gave Name to Vogue

The name "silhouette" is derived from Etienne de Silhouette, a French minister of finance, who was famous for his measures of economy in 1759. All business was stripped of unnecessary detail. Paintings were reduced to mere outlines. Whether this was in conformance with the spirit of economy or because it was coincidence that black and white outline portraits became popular at this time, the name "Silhouette" was applied to them and has clung.

Animal Highly Valued

The water buffalo is valued highly in China, especially in the fields, where it is used for the cultivation of the rice crop. It is said that they are more powerful than the ox and capable of dragging or carrying a heavier load. The female yields a much greater quantity of milk than a cow, and of excellent quality, from which the ghee or semi-fluid butter of India is made. The hide is valued for its strength and durability.

Relic of Feudal Days

The old Norman tower of Holy Trinity church, at Richmond, in Yorkshire, England, dates back to the Eleventh century. It is one of the few, if not the only church where the old custom of ringing the curfew still survives. The tower contains two bells. For centuries the larger bell has been rung every day at six o'clock in the morning and again at curfew hour—eight o'clock in the evening. The smaller bell is rung at eleven o'clock on Shrove Tuesday morning "to bid the housewives tend the fires and cook the pancakes well." Another quaint survival at this church is the practice of ringing the "gathering bell" on the occasion of a funeral to give the mourners an hour's notice to prepare. Unless speedy restoration work is undertaken this ancient tower is said to be doomed.—Family Herald.

Not Really Profanity

It is perfectly correct when you say that "darn" got into bad company and took some of the color of "damn." But what is the origin of the word? "Darn" is not an intensive adjective meaning "very most," as you assume, but is an offspring of the Shakespearean word "dearn, dern" which signified "terrible," originally "darkened, soiled." A cognate verb is "tarnish" (to soil).—New York Herald Tribune.

In the Edible Class

"Yes," said the teacher, "we have several plants and flowers named with the prefix 'dog.' Of course, the 'dog-rose' and 'dog-violet' are well known to you all. Can any of you tell me others?" For some seconds the class remained dumb. Then a bright idea illuminated the face of an urchin, and up went his hand. "Callie flowers, Miss!"

Peter DePaolo—1925 Indianapolis Race Winner

This statement from the young race driver, who purchased a Buick a week after he wheeled his car to victory at Indianapolis and broke the record of that famous Speedway, sums up the nation-wide opinion of Buick.

For, just as DePaolo recognizes the superiority of valve-in-head engines for the race track and personal use, so too have more than a million everyday motorists recognized the dependability and performance of Buick and the Valve-in-Head type of engine upon which Buick has concentrated for 21 years.

De Paolo bought a new Buick with the motor car expert's discriminating eye for performance, for dependability and genuine value. And his purchase is further evidence of the regard in which Buick is so universally held.

The Power of Thought

By WARREN ORDWAY

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

MR. HOLLOWAY was in an expansive mood, as he had just come from a good dinner and an ovation. Before an enthusiastic audience at the City club he had made his famous speech on "The Power of Thought."

He unbuttoned his vest and seated himself before his "workbench," as he liked to call his mahogany desk. "Now, if I can have an uninterrupted hour I can get some real work out of the way," he said.

Quiet thought was what accomplished things! From the day when as a young man, Holloway had stumbled across the formula for hardening the rubber in tires he had longed for time to think.

A workman entered and stood before Mr. Holloway's desk asking his advice. Mr. Holloway rose, cursing the interruption, and followed the workman into an adjoining room where the last finishing touches were being put on some alterations. The workman asked a question about the trim, which Mr. Holloway answered instantly.

He did not return at once to his office, but walked about the room, admiring the details. It was to be an absolutely quiet room.

"When this quiet room is finished I'll be able to get some real work done!" Mr. Holloway exclaimed, as he returned to his desk.

No sooner had he got squared away than the office manager, a thin, nervous fellow, in a black haircloth coat, bustled up. "Mr. Holloway, I'm at my wits' end," he fumed. "They're taking my storage space for factory materials, and I don't know where in the world I'm going to put the transfer correspondence." He spread a plan on his chief's desk.

Mr. Holloway scrutinized the plan, and like a flash, the solution came to him. He picked up the plan and boomed: "I'll let you know later. And in the meantime I'll give the matter my best thought."

The telephone rang and a City club secretary a thousand miles away asked if he would give his speech before their organization. "Yes, yes!" he shouted, and turned with a groan back to his plan.

A young man quietly entered the democratic office and stood before Mr. Holloway's desk. "I'm from Successful Men Magazine, and our readers want your ideas on the power of thought," Mr. Holloway gave his views, his voice trembling with the desire to throw the interrupting young man into the street.

A few days later the quiet room was finished. Every stick of furniture was in its place, and even the bronze reproduction of Rodin's "Thinker," reposed on the mantle. Mr. Holloway cleared the room of reporters and guests and announced he should first consider the problem of the office manager's transfer files.

Mr. Holloway sank back into one of the capacious padded leather chairs. This was the critical moment to which he had looked forward all through his business life. No more distractions; no more snap judgments, but from now on every decision firmly rooted in the deep thought that flourishes only in silence.

He spread the office manager's plan on the table, folded his hands across his unbuttoned vest and closed his eyes, the better to concentrate on the problem. He leaned his head against the leather chair back and relaxed every muscle.

The silence of the room hung over him like a blanket. He could hear the blood pounding in his head, while in his ears there rang a sharp, thin sound, like a distant locomotive whistle.

The ringing in his ears grew louder and became the whistle of a yacht—his yacht, bought with the extra profits made through the use of the silent room. He was standing on deck as the glorious boat plowed the blue waters of the Mediterranean sea. But what was the booming and that rattle of guns? A pirate ship in the distance! Its cannon was firing a shot a second, and its small arms were rattling an accompaniment. It was coming nearer, nearer. He shouted to the captain of his yacht. "Shoot! Why don't you shoot!"

Mr. Holloway awoke with a start. He snapped on the light and looked at his watch. After six! He had slept for over four hours!

He opened the great felt door and tiptoed across the dark, deserted office to where his hat was hanging. Glancing about, fearful lest he should meet one of his employees, he slunk shamefacedly to the elevator.

Next morning the office manager stood expectantly before Mr. Holloway's desk. "Did you decide about those cases of transfer correspondence?" he asked.

Mr. Holloway handed him a cigar and cleared his throat. "Don't be surprised," he warned with a nervous laugh.

After the two men had lighted their cigars Mr. Holloway ordered: "You can store the stuff in the new quiet room."

"Wha-wha-a-at?" stammered the office manager.

Mr. Holloway continued more confidently, now the first shock was over. "I've revised my slogan. From now on it's to be, 'Thought plus action.' You might have fifty copies struck off and distributed to all my department heads."

THORNDALE GETS LUTHERAN MEET.

Walburg, Texas, July 15.—Thorndale captured the next convention of the state body of the Lutheran church, when O. Weise placed his congregation in nomination, with the unusual inducement to feed and lodge every delegate, pastor and teacher of Christian day schools free of charge during the seven-day meet. The Rev. E. Stelzer is pastor of the Lutheran Church at Thorndale.

W. H. Bewie of Waco, who has for several years been editor-in-chief of the Texas Lutheran Messenger, official publication of the Texas district of the synod, was relieved of this office since his duties as field secretary of the church require his entire time. The Rev. P. Birkman of Brenham was elected editor-in-chief.

The international field secretary of the Walther League, Prof. E. H. Engelbrecht of Chicago, in an address before the convention on young people's work, stated that the Walther League, an organization of Lutheran young people, which has 1420 societies and 45,000 members, collected 275 tons of clothing during the drive for European relief last year.

Among the recent achievements of the league is a $300,000 sanitarium at Wheatridge, Colo., built and maintained exclusively by the young people of the church. Professor Engelbrecht was on his way to the state convention of the Walther League at Port Arthur on July 19 to 22, and will go from there to the international convention at San Francisco.

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

The Cameron Herald departs from its program of local civic editorials to dip into a deeper subject, and one most pertinent at this time and of county-wide interest—that of the farmer raising his own living. The Herald's editorial is good. It is timely. Its logic is unassailable. Its conclusions are correct. The Reporter takes pleasure in endorsing it and reproducing it, as follows:

"It is said that when an ice cream plant recently shut down in Cameron the market was closed to about 100 gallons of milk each day. A small item of $21,900 annually cut out of the farm revenue. Again we repeat that our problems are not industrial. They are inherent with the farm and its varied by-products. Figures show that Cameron's butter bill is about $600 a week, probably amounting to $31,200 each year and of this amount hardly one-fourth is produced on our farms. Three-fourths shipped in. An enormous denial of money to the community because we have not learned the treachery of cotton or that cows and hens pay better than fleece white fields. Our agricultural interests; our stock, dairy and poultry interests challenge the best thought of the community. Financial interests must soon come to realize the potential wealth of a well developed agricultural system; that while profits are taken from the toil of farmers under the servitude of cotton, no community will permanently prosper without a multiplicity of products on the farm. A program of diversification on the farm is a challenge to the Commercial Club and all other civic bodies that would serve the community. The shackles will fall the day we set about to accomplish it."

Over in East Texas we find farmers engaged in diversified farming. With a character of soil apparently exactly like the sandy land sections of Matchless Milam they are raising their own livings at home and have their cotton money as "velvet." Milam county farmers could do the same thing, but the number of them who do is pitifully few. As the Herald suggests, the answer lies, not alone with our farmers, but with our commercial bodies as well. A definite program must obtain.—Rockdale Reporter

ENDOWMENT FUND AND BIGGER LEGION URGED

McGEE, STREETER AND FOLBRE
TALK TO LEGION MEN
HERE.

Minutes of District Convention of the Sixth District held at Cameron July 19, 1925:

O. M. Boynton of Corsicana called the meeting to order at 2 p. m.

Tom S. Henderson Jr., C. L. Terry and J. B. White were the resolutions committee. The committee was authorized to draw resolution to thank the ladies of Cameron for the dinner furnished for the occasion.

Address of Mark McGee, Department Commander, was called for by Mr. Boynton. Commander McGee addressed the meeting on building up the membership.

Mr. McGee sanctioned 11 o'clock service attendance on Sunday during the district meeting held on Sunday so that the people would know what the Legion stood for first of all. Also spoke on the heritage of the Legion members which is a heritage that only those boys who served in the World War have.

"We are trying to teach the public that Legion members are honorable, God fearing men and upstanding toward that purpose and again that first of all that we are organized for God and for Country and to primarily serve the same." He asked for a greater Legion membership in Texas.

Mr. McGee also expressed regret that he could not attend a meeting at every post in the state, but that his personal business and public affiliation did not permit him to attend every meeting as he would like to do. He called upon the Legion members to oppose communist propaganda in our state and country and to keep fighting it until it is destroyed. Also to plead for stronger laws against aliens and red immigrants and to help our government to Americanize immigrants, by causing them to be taught and show their allegiance to our country.

Mr. Boynton of Corsicana spoke on Legion work and co-operation of its members within the individual post.

Department Adjutant J. L. Folbre of Dallas spoke at length about the National Legion Endowment Fund and also on building up the Legion in Texas, expressing his view that we have got to go to work and build up our Legion in Texas for it to ever exist in the future, setting forth some of the necessities and ways of building up the Legion.

He spoke of the National Endowment fund drive pleading for help for the disabled veterans, their wives, or widows, children or orphans. Also pleading for the help for about 40,000 ex-soldiers who have been turned down on claims by Veterans Bureau because of unsatisfactory proof or insufficient proof to prove their claims although they are disabled and need help.

Frank B. Streeter, member of National executive committee spoke to the meeting not to consider the endowment fund a hobby but it is a cause by Legion men and officials because of the needs of the disabled veterans and dead veterans' widows and orphans now turned loose on the public and states of our country.

He also pleaded with the Legion members and the people not to consider this as any body's hobby but a cause, which has been sponsored by the Legion to push and put over by our president and other big government officials as well as some of our country's leading business men. He pleaded that it is a necessity that the endowment fund be raised so as to keep the disabled veterans, widows and orphans from throwing themselves upon the individual citizens, the public and the state, county and National government for aid.

He urged the men to realize that the endowment fund is a necessity and he spoke to the men at length on the subject in a very able address.

STOMACH ILLS

Mississippian Was Weak,
Couldn't Eat Enough.

"I had a bad case of stomach trouble," says Mr. N. A. Smith, of Shaw, Miss. "I couldn't eat enough and was very weak. Everything I ate hurt me, formed gas, and I spit up my food."

"I would feel stupid or staggering. I didn't feel like doing any work. I knew what Black-Draught had done... and I began taking small doses. I certainly got relief. It did me lots of good."

"When I go to town, I look first to see how near out of Black-Draught we are, and then get more. We keep our home remedies and the main one is Black-Draught."

In hundreds of thousands of homes, housekeepers keep Black-Draught as a remedy to relieve indigestion, biliousness, constipation.

Containing no harmful or other mineral drugs, Black-Draught is absolutely safe to take for all members of the family.

You should keep Black-Draught always on hand, for use when needed.

THE MAN WHO SAVES YOU MONEY

STOP WASTING--OR FACE PAUPERISM

By WILLIAM E. KNOX
President, American Bankers Association

The American standard of living, the highest in the world, came easily in the past from the abundance of our natural wealth, but it can be maintained in the future only by drastic national economy in the use of that wealth. We have grown up to our resources. We can not afford to waste them any longer. Industrially we have got to stop wasting, but even more so have we got to stop the wastefulness of our personal habits.

The paramount challenge to education in America today calls for the effective teaching of personal economics—for education in the management of personal incomes so that they will give every individual a good living during his productive years and provide certain security for the non-productive years of his old age.

Forty-four million people, two-fifths of our population, are gainfully employed in the United States, earning more than $60,000,000,000 annually. The management of the expenditure of this $60,000,000,000 annual pay-check is the biggest and most important business in America. It has been estimated that upwards of $10,000,000,000 of this personal income is wasted annually. More than a billion, it is estimated, disappears in foolish speculation in fake schemes.

The spirit of waste in America is a heritage of the past, but today the country has more than one hundred and fourteen million people to support and no nation's resources can withstand extravagance indefinitely. An increase in population will mean a reduced average of personal wealth unless intelligent management maintains a progressively more economic utilization of the national income.

To teach our people this is the task of education and it can not begin to meet the task a moment too soon. The advance of civilization makes man's existence a more and more serious business. Human responsibilities and duties increase each year. If progress has made life more abundant it has also made it more expensive. It is impossible for most men to increase their real wages. Therefore they must meet their added responsibilities out of more economic employment of what they get.

The schools must teach our young people so to manage their own personal affairs as to insure that they will lead lives that have an economic worth to society and to themselves. Business must provide plans for its workers to enable them not only to earn but also to save so that the teaching of the schools will not prove an illusion in practice. Do these things and we will have no pauperism in America. Neglect to do them and we will ultimately develop pauperism, a nation's worst social crime.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON HAVING MONEY ON HAND

"Aunt, why is it such a good thing to have cash in the bank?" asked Jane of Aunt Emmy. "Mr. Wilkins was talking to father yesterday and he said that every one ought to have a certain amount of cash on hand."

"He meant that if you keep some of your money in the bank where it can be had any time you might be able to use it to excellent advantage," said Aunt Emmy. "Every now and then a good opportunity presents itself to make a nice profit in some business deal if you only have the cash on hand so you can act quickly. Don't you remember about that quarrel the Brown brothers had over their inheritance and to settle it sold that house in Center Street? Old Peter Haskins bought it in for $3,000 and the next week sold it for $4,200. If he hadn't had the cash on hand he never could have made that handsome profit."

"Yes, Aunt, that's all right for Mr. Haskins, but I'm never likely to have $3,000 or $4,000 on hand."

"Well there are other little ways to make a profit," said Aunt Emmy. "For instance, you can always benefit by cash discounts. That is, if some one asks you to pay, say $100 for a thing, you can usually get it for less, sometimes ten per cent less, if you pay at once in cash. You always should have some of your money in cash so that you can take advantage of golden opportunities and cash discounts."—A. B. Aymes.

BANKERS HELP

Mason County, Mich., bankers are backing the county move to replace scrub stock with purebred cattle. The plan as outlined by the county agent is to purchase young purebred sires and place them wherever a farmer is found who is willing to undertake the proposition. The bankers will advance the purchase price and take a note for one year without interest. The idea is to make it as easy as possible for the farmers to procure their purebreds.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Carrying Checks Around

"Have you heard about the trouble Jim Sykes is in, Aunt Emmy?" asked Molly, who dearly loved to talk about her neighbors.

"Why, no," answered Aunt Emmy. "What is it?"

"Well, Aunt, you know how proud he was to get that building job from Mr. Parker. He needed the money so much. When it was finished Mr. Parker gave him a check for $3,000. Of course Jim had obligated himself to pay a lot of that out for materials and things. Well, you know what an old slow poke Jim Sykes is. Instead of taking the check to the bank right away he carried it around in his pocket and then poor Mr. Parker died. Now he must wait until Mr. Parker's estate is settled, and that may be a couple of years before he can cash the check. Poor Jim, isn't it a shame!"

"It's too bad," agreed Aunt Emmy, "but quite in keeping with most folks' carelessness about money. People should be prompt in depositing checks. Aside from such a serious thing as a death, an undeposited check is a nuisance to lots of people. Banks and business houses keep their books carefully balanced. If at the end of a month a check that has been issued has not been put through for collection it means a lot of unnecessary bookkeeping for the person who issued the check and for the bank."

"Then, too, there is the danger of loss. People often write their names across the back of a check and then carry it around for a day or two before banking it. An indorsed check is as negotiable as money. To be safe always indorse it to your bank. Write 'Pay to the Order of —' then the name of your bank and below that sign your name. That protects the check from being used, if it should get out of your hands. But never waste any time about depositing checks you receive."

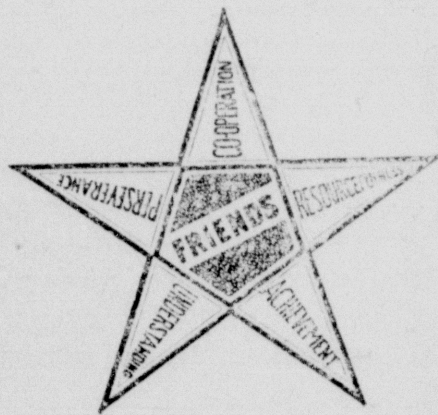

"Not after what happened to Jim and after hearing you tell me all these things, Aunt!" said Molly. "I'd be scared to keep a check a minute more than necessary."—Anne B. Aymes.

PITFALLS FOR THE UNWARY

Seek Bankers' Advice on Foreign Bonds, Says Department of Commerce.

American investors in securities of foreign companies and foreign governments should take care to purchase them only through reliable bankers or brokers, says Commerce Reports issued by the Department of Commerce. It adds:

"There have recently been several flagrant cases of securities being advertised in American journals at prices from 10 to 100 times the price quoted on the same date in the markets of the countries where the concerns are located. Some of these cases have even attracted the attention of foreign newspapers. This is not a safe kind of speculation for un-informed Americans, but the would-be investor can easily protect himself by asking the advice of his regular bank."

The breakfast was prepared and served by the following girls: Misses Louise Johnson, Iva Wilson, Kathryn Ledbetter, Ima Wilson, Beatrice Rylander, Oleta Modesett, Nora Adams, Eva Tyson, Oma Graham, Lucile Fowler. All expressed for Miss Guffey their good wishes for her happiness and a desire for her return to Cameron.

A 42 PARTY.

Saturday afternoon Geraldine Slaughter entertained her friends with a delightful 42 party. Three tables were prettily arranged for the games, each centered with tiny baskets of confections. These were finally awarded to Misses Lois Robbins, Eulene Slaughter and Helen Blaylock. Miss Ruby Robbins was given a bracelet for high score and Miss Ethel Green received a tiny parasol for low score.

Grape punch and sandwiches were attractively served. Those present were Misses Florence Atkinson, Ruby and Lois Robbins, Helen Blaylock, Dora Emily Moore, Nancy Ree Slocomb, Christine Kubecka, Eulene Slaughter, Charlotte Pardo and Ethel Green.

LINK-BROWN.

A wedding which centered the interest of a wide circle of affectionate friends was solemnized last Thursday morning at 8:30 by Rev. E. S. Hutcherson, pastor of the Cameron Baptist Church at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Link on the Maysfield road when Miss Fiedie Lee Link became the bride of Mr. R. L. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brown of Cameron. The bridal couple were attended by Mr. Penn Wolf as best man and by Mrs. Penn Wolf as Matron of Honor. The bridal scene was a home wedding of unusual beauty and charm. The home was radiant with summer flowers and only members of the families of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony. The bride wore a beige georgette with picture hat and harmonizing accessories. This most becoming bridal attire was exchanged for a traveling suit in shades of tan before Mr. and Mrs. Brown began their motor wedding journey to San Antonio where they spent their honeymoon. They have returned and have begun housekeeping in the Tuttle apartment. The best wishes of their many friends attend them for their married life.

The Silly Sally Sewing Society held its second meeting with Callie Heath on Monday afternoon. Each member brought sewing and while sewing fine seams a merry time was enjoyed. Sandwiches and pink lemonade was daintily served by the young hostess. The name "Silly Sally Sewing Society" was chosen from among many offered. Regular meetings will be held each Monday afternoon in the homes of the members. The meeting next Monday will be held at the City Park and refreshments will be contributed by the several members whose names follow: Lena Bell Baskin, Florence Ledbetter, Cornelia Gunn, Mittie Lou Howard, Vivian Lamkin, Eulene Slaughter, Margaret McCown, Nancy Ree Slocomb, Alyne Ledbetter, Geraldine Slaughter, Harriet Flinn, Dorothy Denson, Callie Heath, Lois Randolph, Bethel Middleton, Louise Johnson, Kate Maples, Elizabeth McDermott. The following are officers: President, Mittie Lou Howard, Vice President Kate Maples, Secretary and Treasurer Callie Heath, Chairman Flornece Ledbetter.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Penn Wolf entertained with a miscellaneous shower in honor of her new sister in law, Mrs. R. L. Brown. After the guests had assembled Mrs. Wolf arrived with the bride who was taken completely by surprise. In a basket fittingly decorated, wedding gifts were presented by Miss Jennie Brown and Mrs. P. W. Davis.

The bride unwrapped them and thanked the donors in a fitting way. The hostess provided dish towels which were trimmed by those present for the bonny bride. Orange ice and angel cake squares were served. Plate favors were bridal slippers with wish bones to which, were attached tiny cards with "Advice to Brides". Reading these cards, furnished fitting sentiment for the happy occasion.

STROLL PARTY.

Wednesday evening Gardine Lesovsky gave a stroll party on the beautiful Lesovsky lawn in honor of his two cousins, Dan Nabours who left this week for Tulsa, Okla., and Stantey Holik who is here from Caldwell to visit for a short time. About fifty guests were present to enjoy the party. Between strolls Mrs. Lesovsky served fruit punch and near the close of the evening angel cake squares and brick ice cream.

The Power of Thought

By WARREN ORDWAY

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

MR. HOLLOWAY was in an expansive mood, as he had just come from a good dinner and an ovation. Before an enthusiastic audience at the City club he had made his famous speech on "The Power of Thought."

He unbuttoned his vest and seated himself before his "workbench," as he liked to call his mahogany desk. "Now, if I can have an uninterrupted hour I can get some real work out of the way," he said.

Quiet thought was what accomplished things! From the day when as a young man, Holloway had stumbled across the formula for hardening the rubber in tires he had longed for time to think.

A workman entered and stood before Mr. Holloway's desk asking his advice. Mr. Holloway rose, cursing the interruption, and followed the workman into an adjoining room where the last finishing touches were being put on some alterations. The workman asked a question about the trim, which Mr. Holloway answered instantly.

He did not return at once to his office, but walked about the room, admiring the details. It was to be an absolutely quiet room.

"When this quiet room is finished I'll be able to get some real work done!" Mr. Holloway exclaimed, as he returned to his desk.

No sooner had he got squared away than the office manager, a thin, nervous fellow, in a black haircloth coat, bustled up. "Mr. Holloway, I'm at my wits' end," he fumed. "They're taking my storage space for factory materials, and I don't know where in the world I'm going to put the transfer correspondence." He spread a plan on his chief's desk.

Mr. Holloway scrutinized the plan, and like a flash, the solution came to him. He picked up the plan and boomed: "I'll let you know later. And in the meantime I'll give the matter my best thought."

The telephone rang and a City club secretary a thousand miles away asked if he would give his speech before their organization. "Yes, yes!" he shouted, and turned with a groan back to his plan.

A young man quietly entered the democratic office and stood before Mr. Holloway's desk. "I'm from Successful Men Magazine, and our readers want your ideas on the power of thought," Mr. Holloway gave his views, his voice trembling with the desire to throw the interrupting young man into the street.

A few days later the quiet room was finished. Every stick of furniture was in its place, and even the bronze reproduction of Rodin's "Thinker," reposed on the mantle. Mr. Holloway cleared the room of reporters and guests and announced he should first consider the problem of the office manager's transfer files.

Mr. Holloway sank back into one of the capacious padded leather chairs. This was the critical moment to which he had looked forward all through his business life. No more distractions; no more snap judgments, but from now on every decision firmly rooted in the deep thought that flourishes only in silence.

He spread the office manager's plan on the table, folded his hands across his unbuttoned vest and closed his eyes, the better to concentrate on the problem. He leaned his head against the leather chair back and relaxed every muscle.

The silence of the room hung over him like a blanket. He could hear the blood pounding in his head, while in his ears there rang a sharp, thin sound, like a distant locomotive whistle.

The ringing in his ears grew louder and became the whistle of a yacht—his yacht, bought with the extra profits made through the use of the silent room. He was standing on deck as the glorious boat plowed the blue waters of the Mediterranean sea. But what was the booming and that rattle of guns? A pirate ship in the distance! Its cannon was firing a shot a second, and its small arms were rattling an accompaniment. It was coming nearer, nearer. He shouted to the captain of his yacht. "Shoot! Why don't you shoot?"

Mr. Holloway awoke with a start. He snapped on the light and looked at his watch. After six! He had slept for over four hours!

He opened the great felt door and tiptoed across the dark, deserted office to where his hat was hanging. Glancing about, fearful lest he should meet one of his employees, he slunk shamefacedly to the elevator.

Next morning the office manager stood expectantly before Mr. Holloway's desk. "Did you decide about those cases of transfer correspondence?" he asked.

Mr. Holloway handed him a cigar and cleared his throat. "Don't be surprised," he warned with a nervous laugh.

After the two men had lighted their cigars Mr. Holloway ordered: "You can store the stuff in the new quiet room."

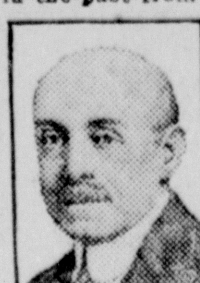

"Wha-wha-a-ah?" stammered the office manager. Mr. Holloway continued more confidently, now the first shock was over. "I've revised my slogan. From now on it's to be, 'Thought plus action.' You might have fifty copies struck off and distributed to all my department heads."

STOP WASTING--OR FACE PAUPERISM

By WILLIAM E. KNOX

President, American Bankers Association

The American standard of living, the highest in the world, came easily in the past from the abundance of our natural wealth, but it can be maintained in the future only by drastic national economy in the use of that wealth. We have grown up to our resources. We can not afford to waste them any longer. Industri-ally we have got to stop wasting, but even more so have we got to stop the wastefulness of our personal habits.

The paramount challenge to education in America today calls for the effective teaching of personal economics—for education in the management of personal incomes so that they will give every individual a good living during his productive years and provide certain security for the non-productive years of his old age.

Forty-four million people, two-fifths of our population, are gainfully employed in the United States, earning more than $60,000,000,000 annually. The management of the expenditure of this $60,000,000,000 annual pay check is the biggest and most important business in America. It has been estimated that upwards of $10,000,000,000 of this personal income is wasted annually. More than a billion, it is estimated, disappears in foolish speculation in fake schemes.

The spirit of waste in America is a heritage of the past, but today the country has more than one hundred and fourteen million people to support and no nation's resources can withstand extravagance indefinitely. An increase in population will mean a reduced average of personal wealth unless intelligent management maintains a progressively more economic utilization of the national income.

To teach our people this is the task of education and it can not begin to meet the task a moment too soon. The advance of civilization makes man's existence a more and more serious business. Human responsibilities and duties increase each year. If progress has made life more abundant it has also made it more expensive. It is impossible for most men to increase their real wages. Therefore they must meet their added responsibilities out of more economic employment of what they get.

The schools must teach our young people so to manage their own personal affairs as to insure that they will lead lives that have an economic worth to society and to themselves. Business must provide plans for its workers to enable them not only to earn but also to save so that the teaching of the schools will not prove an illusion in practice. Do these things and we will have no pauperism in America. Neglect to do them and we will ultimately develop pauperism—a nation's worst social crime.

Another thing—I if I believed as "Col." Darrow, I would give my family strict instructions that at my death there should be no preacher with an open Bible at my grave. I would be that honest with myself. And if I thought that the accumulation of wealth was the one great object of this life, I would want some of my wealth made into a pillow for my head rest. And if my eyes need glasses I would go to an Optometrist, eye specialist, to get my eyes fitted.

Why the Studebaker is the "One-Profit" Car--

There are more than 60 makes of passenger cars built in the United States, but very few are manufactured complete in the plants of the producers who sell them.

Only 42 build their own motors and one of the 42 is Studebaker.

Out of the 42 which claim to make their own motors many merely machine and assemble the parts made by others. Only 14 out of 42 make the iron castings, stampings and forgings which go into their motors—and one of the 14 is Studebaker.

Only 5 make all their own bodies and one of the 5 is Studebaker.

Only 3 make all their own springs, steering gear differentials, gear sets, and clutches—one of the 3 is Studebaker.

Only 2 make all their own motors, bodies, clutches, springs, axels, gear sets, differentials and steering gear. One of these two is Studebaker and the other is Ford.

Compare the Quality and performance of Studebaker with any other make of car.

THE FARMER HIS OWN ADVISER

The farmer is being given much advice at the present time. Financial leaders are telling him about credit and marketing; governmental agencies are telling him about agricultural methods; chambers of commerce are offering prizes to speed up production.

But the farmer will be very wise to apply himself to one lesson that every progressive class has learned, and that is, he must study his own problems, frame his own policies, and take his own advice. The world may be approaching the millennium, as some good souls evidently believe, but the time has not yet come when one class of producers need expect salvation at the hands of another class, or at the hands of the trader class.

Unfortunately all the farmer's self-appointed advisers seem to take it as an accepted axiom that the problem of the farmer is the problem of production. "Teach him to grow two blades of grass where one grows now, and so increase his wealth," seems to be the general thesis of the non-farmer philosophy.

It is good non-farmer philosophy, perhaps, because it means more food and more clothing and more pleasures for the world in general, especially that part of it that never sees a farm. But from the farmer's viewpoint there are several doubts to be expressed.

In the first place even a casual glance at the facts in the case will show that in the past a general increase in farm production has not brought the farmer any general increase in wealth. The farmer has profited chiefly from his fellow farmer's suffering. A good cotton crop in Texas was indeed a great blessing to the farmer when there was a drought in Georgia and the Carolinas. A good wheat crop in Kansas was indeed a boon when there was a failure in Montana and the Dakotas. But good crops for all have meant merely a slump in prices.

The same principle holds good in individual cases. If a farmer learns to grow more cotton on an acre than his neighbor. But as soon as the neighbor, and others, learn the new method the sole result will be increased production, with no assurance of increased returns.

The reasons for these facts should be plain. But if anyone refuses to follow them the facts themselves are at hand. Farm production has been increased greatly, per acre and per working hand, in the United States in the last generation. This has been so to such a striking extent that a good proportion of the population formerly needed in agriculture has been released for other pursuits. And yet anyone who cares to weigh the economic facts will find that the farmer's per capita wealth has not increased. They will find that increased production emphatically has not brought him increased wealth.

Why then should the farmer continue to look for prosperity in increased production?

And, incidentally, how can the enlightened farmer continue to enjoy his occasional prosperity when he knows it is based to such a large extent on disaster to his fellow farmer?

These are paramount questions that the outside farmer-adviser bear well in mind, and ones that the public discussion of the farm problem.

No reasonable man would condemn the increase in production of the things that the world needs. No one would condemn the searching out of new and improved methods of production, and certainly no one would condemn soil conservation and pest control work. Very much to the contrary.

But the point the urban friend of the farmer should understand is that his primary problem is one of marketing. He is probably the only producer who has virtually nothing to say about the price of his product. The buyer does virtually all the bargaining; the farmer takes what organized trade is willing to give him.

Fundamentally, of course, the farmer must solve his own problem by getting in a position where he can bargain in the sale of his products. The public generally can help him little, except possibly in providing certain lines of government credit. But the public can condemn the incessant propaganda that divides him and his fellow farmers and thwarts them in their efforts to reach their goal of real independence.

And it can be remembered that profits to the farmer need not mean hardships on other classes. More profits to him will mean more efficiency and more production—more food and clothing for the world in general—but it is about time, in all conscience, that some degree of profit to the farmer should come first. Even the most confirmed and ingrown city dweller should concede that—Houston Chronicle.

"Fergusons gives $225,000 to Milam County Roads," reads a screamer headline in the Cameron Herald announcing the allotment by the State Highway Commission of that amount of money for the purpose named. "Ma Ferguson has been considerate of Milam county," continues the Herald's story, "and has given funds for an asphalt topping for all designated highways; friends of the Fergusons in the county delighted with the allotment." Strange as it may sound, the above is probably a true statement of facts. But why limit the delight experienced by the populace to the friends of the Fergusons?—Rockdale Reporter.

We would not deny to any the benefits derived from a friendly administration in the capitol at Austin and as for the friends of the Fergusons, we feel sure they will be delighted to know that some of the Butte supporters know a good thing when they see it. We would remind our esteemed friend, The Reporter, that any reference to the Ferguson friends in Milam county means a big majority.

TO THE EDITOR.

Austin, Texas, July 20, 1925.

Hon. J. B. White,
Editor, Cameron Herald,
Cameron, Texas.

My Dear Friend:

Thinking that my many friends in Cameron and Milam county might be interested in the news of the biggest department in the state government, and one in which there are many people of the state interested in, I will endeavor to give you a little news.

When I came here, the Governor placed me in the Fire Insurance Department, but did not let me remain there but 14 days and on July 13th the Highway Commissioners unanimously elected me as Headquarters Superintendent of Maintenance. The news of it in the daily papers, was the first intimation that I had that they even had ever had me in mind, and while the papers carried the item in the name M. L. Laurence, they merely guessed at my name in the Commission as they had nothing from me.

The place is a very important place, and it requires the service of one that I fear would measure up to a bigger standard than myself, yet the work is very nice and pleasant; every cent of money that is paid out for the maintenance and upkeep of the highways of the state, has to pass through my hands and be passed upon by me. I have noticed quite a bit of money going to people in Grand Old Milam, the best county in Texas, and I want the people of Milam county and of Cameron to know, that I still claim, and shall continue to claim her as my home.

I have quite a number of people under me and I am proud to say, that they are all loyal and true blue friends of the administration. A person has no idea of the enormity of the Highway business and of the amount of money that my department sends out over Texas each day; yet the records that I keep of the amounts that are finally approved each day, are much less by even thousands of dollars in many instances than were expended for the same days last year; the Highway Commission, being run now by men whose loyalty can not be questioned, is saving large sums of money each month, over and above what were expended last year and years prior thereto. I want the people of Milam county and in fact over the state to know that when they have claims against the Highway Department, their claims will not remain here but a short time for I have adopted a policy to get them out as quickly as possible.

It is my purpose, aim and desire to be of real service to the people of the state, and they shall always find me more than willing to serve them in such a way that will cause them to want to return.

At any time that you are in Austin, I shall deem it a real pleasure to have you to come to see me, this applies to all of my friends in Cameron and Milam county.

With every good wish to you and to the people of Milam county, I am,

Your friend,

L. E. LAURENCE.

DEATH TAXES AS BUSINESS KILLERS

Assistant Treasury Secretary Tells Fable of Fate of Two Successful Men.

Men cannot be expected to continue to work, day after day, increasing the productivity of this country and benefiting others, if they know that on death the major portion of their earnings will be dissipated in Federal estate and state inheritance taxes, declares Charles S. Dewey, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in the American Bankers Association Journal. He says:

"I am going to relate a fable in terms of modern business conditions. John Henry and Walter Brown were aggressive, hard-working men, and each had started business for himself. "At the time this history opens, John Henry had just died, leaving his entire estate to his son, John Henry, Jr., and had appointed his old friend, Walter Brown, as executor. Prior to his death John Henry had moved to California, leaving his business in the hands of his son under whom it had continued to make excellent headway. The father had been doing a little speculating in oil. This venture had not proved successful and he was indebted in the sum of $500,000.

"Executor Walter Brown, on examination of the estate, found the following situation:
Capital stock of Henry & Co., Inc., a Michigan Corp., $5,000,000
Personal debts due banks..... 500,000
"Walter Brown soon made the unpleasant discovery that in addition to the personal indebtedness of $500,000, and administration expenses of $250,000, the following death duties must be paid:

Federal estate tax..... $407,500
California inheritance tax..... $35,700
Michigan inheritance tax..... 122,000
Total.....$1,265,200

"Added to the personal debt and administration expenses, this made a grand total liability of $1,955,200. The year was 1920. Money was tight. Other manufacturing companies in the same line which might have been interested in a purchase had no money for extensions nor were the banks in a position to handle a loan of this type. Here was a most successful business, built up from small beginnings by one man and carried on to further successes by his son, about to be placed under the hammer.

"Is there any justice in taxation that may force a man and his family to lose the fruits of his entire life's labor, and permit others to benefit? As a last resort, Henry, Jr., was forced into a bond issue. A loan, to settle the debts, administration expenses and death duties, of $2,250,000 was negotiated, upon the following basis:

"The capital stock of the company was left at $5,000,000 represented by 50,000 shares. First mortgage 8 per cent bonds were offered the public with a bonus of two shares of stock with each $1,000 bond. The banker, to protect his bond customers, kept 30,000 shares to assure control of management, and John Henry, Jr., received the balance of 15,500 shares. John now has a good job as general manager of his father's old company, but they do not pay him very much. "Now we must return to Walter Brown, executor of John Henry, Sr. Walter had always kept close to his own manufacturing business. The more he considered his own situation, the more closely it seemed to him to resemble that of his old friend. "He therefore called a lawyer and made a complete schedule of his assets, requesting that an estimate of administration expenses and death duties be made. The schedule of assets was as follows:

Capital stock, Walter Brown Co., Mich. Corp., $4,000,000
California real estate..... 1,000,000
Tax-exempt bonds, Minn., Mont. and Colo..... 500,000
Total.....$5,500,000
"Within a few days Mr. Brown's lawyer made the following report:
Debts and admin. expenses..... $500,000
Fed. estate tax..... $710,625
Cal. inheritance tax..... 443,194
Mich. inheritance tax..... 260,400
Minn. inheritance tax..... 4,283
Mont. inheritance tax..... 4,486
Calo. inheritance tax..... 2,700
Total death duties.....$1,425,703
Total expenses.....$1,925,703

"On this basis the estate suffered a reduction from $5,500,000 to approximately $3,574,000, thus wiping out all assets except the corporate stock and placing a heavy loan on that. Mr. Brown had one son and, as he thought of John Henry, Jr., tolling away with little hope of opportunity he determined that he would not subject his own son to the same tribulations.

"Boom times having come, there was no difficulty obtaining a purchaser for Walter Brown & Co., and the California real estate was sold at a good price. The whole was invested in tax-exempt bonds which yielded a very safe return of about 4 1/2 per cent. Walter Brown then moved his legal residence to the more friendly climate of Florida, where state inheritance and income taxes are forbidden.

"The country suffers by the loss of effort which Walter Brown might have continued to expend under a more intelligent system of taxation. We must reform the tax system in such a way that business and industry shall not be hampered. We must make sure that American citizens shall not be deprived of the incentive to work and accumulate and that this country shall not cease to be a land of opportunity. A tax system which discourages initiative cannot be the right system for America."

American Bulldog

The American bulldog—or pit bulldog, because of the old sport of fighting them in pits—is one of the few breeds of dogs of distinctly American origin, and one of the first developed in this country. It is the product of a crossing of the English bulldog with the bull terrier, the subsequent introduction of an additional strain of English bulldog ancestry giving the American bull its weight and its shorter muzzle and larger head. But the breed now runs very true, and has for many years, and there is not much experimenting with it.

Chance for Experiment

It was between dances. They were sitting in a dim corner.
"You have wonderful eyes," he murmured.
"Yes?" she inquired expectantly.
"They are like stars," he went on. Her lips brushed his as he murmured: "They are so bright."
His hand fumbled in his pocket and he drew forth a glittering object: "They are so very bright," he repeated. He thrust his watch before her. "See if you can see the time in the dark."

PITFALLS FOR THE UNWARY

Seek Bankers' Advice on Foreign Bonds, Says Department of Commerce.

American investors in securities of foreign companies and foreign governments should take care to purchase them only through reliable bankers or brokers, says Commerce Reports issued by the Department of Commerce. It adds:
"There have recently been several flagrant cases of securities being advertised in American journals at prices from 10 to 100 times the price quoted on the same date in the markets of the countries where the concerns are located. Some of these cases have even attracted the attention of foreign newspapers. This is not a safe kind of speculation for uninformed Americans, but the would-be investor can easily protect himself by asking the advice of his regular banker."

Relic of Feudal Days

The old Norman tower of Holy Trinity church, at Richmond, in Yorkshire, England, dates back to the Eleventh century. It is one of the few, if not the only church where the old custom of ringing the curfew still survives. The tower contains two bells. For centuries the larger bell has been rung every day at six o'clock in the morning and again at curfew hour—eight o'clock in the evening. The smaller bell is rung at eleven o'clock on Shrove Tuesday morning "to bid the housewives tend the fires and cook the pancakes well." Another quaint survival at this church is the practice of ringing the "gathering bell" on the occasion of a funeral to give the mourners an hour's notice to prepare. Unless speedy restoration work is undertaken this ancient tower is said to be doomed.—Family Herald.

Drink Water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

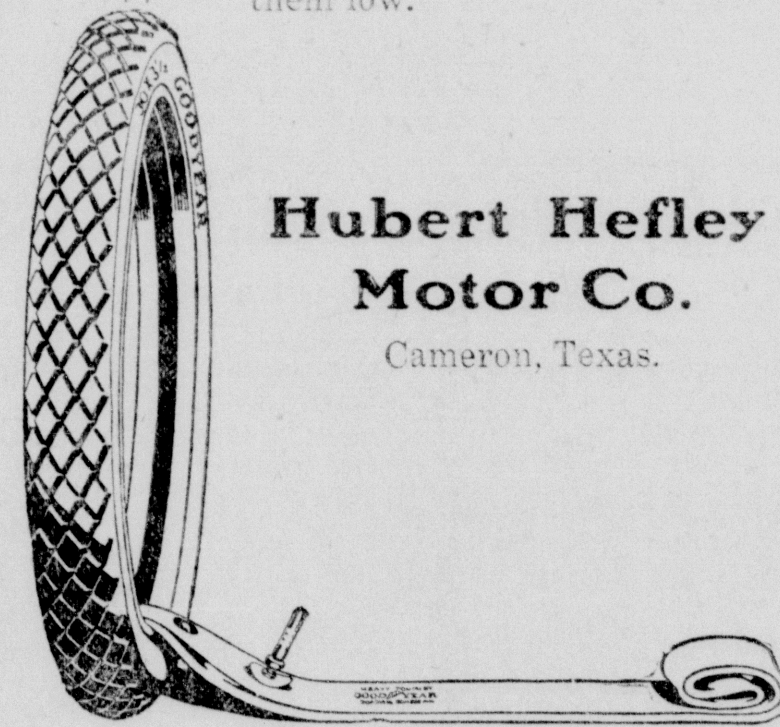

Save Your Money --Buy Goodyears

You may have a barrel of money. We hope you have.

But we can't give you one cent's worth more of dollar-for-dollar tire than the man of modest means can get in a Goodyear Tire today.

The fact is, Goodyear quality is now within reach of all.

That's what comes of building the best of tires and pricing them low.

NEGRO METHODISTS GET NEW PASTOR.

The Rev. F. D. Holloway has succeeded the Rev. J. J. Hardeman here as pastor. He comes from Gonzales but a native of Freestone county, where he received his early training, after which he was a student at Paul Quinn College, Waco.

He spent five years and nine months in Gonzales county, two years at Waelder and four years and nine months at Gonzales, he also taught school four years in the county, and has been elected the third time as principal of the Elm school near city.

He is a strong advocate of the Christ spirit. Wednesday night he preached on the subject of "Alertness" Thursday night at Lights Chapel Baptist church. "The New Birth."

Sunday morning the pastor spoke from the subject: "Room for Jesus." Sunday night he spoke on "The Means of Salvation."

The pastor delivered a strong appeal to his race saying in part:

"We are living in a critical age, where man is seeking to rid himself of responsibility to his God. Vice and immorality seem to be uppermost in the minds of men. He said the drouth is an evidence of God's displeasure toward man referred to Isaiah 40:24. He urged his people in the name of Jesus to make room in their lives for Jesus. He condemned stealing, lying, bootlegging, moonshining, gambling and prostituting. He further urged his people to live good citizens obeying all the laws of the Government, be polite and show special courtesy to the white people, for after all they are our best friends. Saying further, I love my father's young boss who was born along with him before the war. They both live in adjacent counties and are our friends until this day. He urged the mothers and fathers to be sober, grow temperate, sound in faith, in charity, in patience. Titus 2.

He discouraged the modern dress idea for his race and urged that all accept the Bible mode of living.

FLEET ORDERS GIVEN CHEVROLET TODAY.

"Fleet orders" for both passenger cars and trucks are being received with increasing frequency by the Chevrolet Motor company from large organizations whose investigations have established the economy of providing their salesmen and other representatives with reliable motor transportation.

Hundreds of Chevrolet fleets have been delivered since the first of the year.

The group purchasers assign various reasons for their decision to standardize on Chevrolet.

Reliability and economy, one of the factors in Chevrolet's popularity among the farm districts, is the reason most frequently given by the organizations whose men penetrate those districts. Others cite the universal availability of service at Chevrolet's 3,600 direct dealers, 2,900 associate dealers and 11,000 parts depots which dot the country. The purchasers of fleets for city use prefer the Chevrolet because of its attractive appearance and easy handling and its 18.5 foot turning radius.

Among the recent group purchasers is the United States Tobacco company which has furnished a fleet of 54 Chevrolet coaches to its salesmen in the eastern states. They find the coach tonneau convenient for bulky samples.

The Consolidated Gas company since January 1 has bought 34 Chevrolet coupes, roadsters and trucks principally for the use of inspectors, "trouble shooters" and foremen in New York City.

A fleet of 24 coupes has been purchased by the Universal Portland Cement company for its salesmen throughout the country. Hundreds of other companies in a wide variety of business have established Chevrolet fleets ranging in number from six to 20 cars.

"Sales cost records are proving daily the economy of automotive transportation for salesmen," said R. H. Grant, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

curred by the salesman driving an automobile is lower than by rail due to the fact that the salesman using a machine makes three times the number of calls and spends more time with each customer. He will make calls which otherwise he would skip were he limited by rail transportation.

"In addition a salesman who drives an attractive car up to the customer's establishment enjoys a peculiar psychological advantage over the salesman who arrives on foot. Unconsciously the buyer accords more rapid and courteous attention to the man with the car."

WHY OUR GREETING CARDS ARE READILY BOUGHT

Every greeting card in our line represents the earnest thought and endeavor of many different experienced greeting card workers.

Before we accept a greeting card, it must measure up to the following tests:

"Does it express its message humanly and sincerely? Is its color scheme striking and attractive? Is it superior to the average greeting card? Is its sentiment different? Can it be sold at an interesting price?"

All of the designs that do not measure up to these standards are discarded at once and only those which pass the severe criticisms of several expert greeting card designers are allowed to go into the line.

This is the reason that every card we have is a potential sales producer. Most of the cards in the line are the result of the best thoughts and efforts of our extensive corps of expert greeting card designers, sentiment writers and master engravers.

There is far more to our greeting cards than just an unusually beautiful engraving and pretty paper. Every card represents an elegantly expressed message of good-will and thoughtful remembrance. This is what our customers immediately see when they took over our samples.

They are favorably impressed with the clean-cut, bright, snappy colors, the suggestive Christmas designs and the warm-hearted sentiments.

Every one of us is successful only to the extent of the good-will which we create among other people. Our Christmas and New Year greeting cards are powerful good-will builders.

The personal cards cement the good-will of our personal friends while the business designs develop the good-will of old customers and create good-will among those people we are trying to sell products or service.

just boys—men in the making.

Just so many lumps of unfashioned clay—most of them easily moulded, subject to every impression, be it good or bad, that we, the men and women of Cameron make upon them.

Just now, they are easily led—it will not always be so—for, as these boys grow older, the impressions made upon them become fixed—become a part of their lives—almost impossible to change after they have grown into full manhood.

How would you have your boy grow up or if you have no boy of your own, how would you have your neighbors boy grow up?

There are four great influences brought to bear in the moulding of the character of every boy and every girl for that matter.

First of all there is the home influence.

Not so many years ago there came into the lives of some of us who are parents—a tiny chubby scrap of humanity, a baby boy our very own flesh and blood—a living creature—yes more—by the grace of God, a living soul entrusted to our earthly care.

How proud we are of that little son and we dreamed of and planned for his future place in this world.

Our dreams undoubtedly was that he should grow up to be a strong—courageous—noble man—and as that boy grew, let us hope, the high ideal set for him in his babyhood was kept in mind by we, his parents.

Presently there came the second great influence into the life of your boy and mine—the time had arrived for him to start to Sunday school. Sad to relate, in most cases, he was sent, not accompanied. Sad? yes because it was the first breaking of the family tie—there were in that same Sunday school classes for men and women.

Some other boy's father and mother were there and whether he could express it or not that little fellow missed his dad and mama and from that day on we parents began to lose that close contact with our boys.

I know there are a thousand of our excuses but I venture to say the thousands are no excuses at all in the eyes of your boy and mine and the one was covered up in the avalanche and entirely lost sight of.

In Sunday school our boys learned the ten commandments of God's law—the Lord's Prayer—and much about the teachings of Jesus Christ the son of God.

As your boy and mine grows in the knowledge and let us hope in the love of God; how does he regard his own household?

Does he find his parents are reverent. Does he know that they pray daily—Do they try to keep the commandments they would have him keep? Do they ever read together with him the word of God and explain the teachings of Jesus Christ?

And there came that third great influence into the life of our boys—the public school and all the associations that go with it.

The public school is one of the greatest associations of this progressive country of ours and we would not have it changed—it's teachings and it's democratic spirit must be worn into the lives of the youth of our land.

And yet, it is the meeting point of all sorts and conditions of students and teachers; and your boy and my boy is going to learn a great deal from his school associates—that cannot be found in the text books which he studies.

Whatever a boy learns when he is in his teens from his books or from his associates he usually retains and carries with him throughout his earthly existence.

In my opinion the teen age is the most difficult, the most important and the most dangerous in life.

Therefore fathers and mothers I beg of you keep in close touch with your children during that age, give them your sympathy, your encouragement, your help.

Be not only their parents, but their companions, their confidants—their pals, make home attractive for them. Be their study mates and their play mates—take a lively interest in whatever interests your boy.

If he gets the wrong impression about some things, as he is sure to do, lead him into the right way of thinking, being firm—patient and perfectly candid—remembering always, that your boy and mine—flesh of our flesh—does resent being driven and will rebel—just as you and I would if someone, yes even our loved ones, would try to force us into other ways of thinking.

We have considered three great influences that are brought to bear in the moulding of the character of the average boy.

The fourth and to my mind, the most alluring of all in the experience of the boy—is the attraction of the association with older men and boys.

Living in a town, shall we not call it—the attraction of the street.

In his early teens the average boy begins to realize he is undergoing a change—is emerging from childhood into young manhood. With many boys—this is a groping period ever seeking that which he is entitled to know, and seldom receiving the knowledge they acquire from those who are most interested in their moral welfare. Their ears and eyes are wide open as they go about the streets. They listen in and get the point of many a story that they would not dare repeat at home. They pick up and begin to use some vile expressions and perhaps, take the name of the Lord in vain.

They gave with inquiring eyes at the salacious pictures on bill boards—on trashy magazine covers and cut outs displayed in the shop windows of reputable merchants and often our boys form in their minds the wrong impression of what is best and true in life.

As I sat night after night on the steps of my troop headquarters at Belton long after the bugler had sounded taps—when all were asleep save the guards who quietly made their rounds—I could not help but feel the deep responsibility placed in me and in my assistants by many parents of Cameron. Every night I prayed earnestly for wisdom to guide these boys; prayed that I might properly care for them both physically and morally. And as I sat there under the starry heavens I could not help but think of the conditions under which our boys are being developed into manhood. Of what they learn and of what they do not learn from the contacts they have at home—at church—at school and on the street.

If your boy and mine have received wrong impressions, if he is saying and doing things that are unbecoming—the chances are 100 to 1 that it is not entirely his fault—so let's not censure him too severely—he has learned every thing he knows whether it be good or bad from some one else.

Lets place the blame where it belongs, and if the fault is ours let's not dodge the issue but boldly face the facts and try to find a remedy. We do not want our boys to be soft spineless creatures. Deliver us from such. We want our sons to be regular "he boys" full of life, fun and mischief but with all courteous and kind, cheerful and obedient, trust worthy, clean in body and in thought, clean in speech, possessing clean habits, and reverent to God Almighty. That is what the organization of boys with which I am associated with stands for.

But these boys and all the boys of the city need your help and encouragement, no boy treads the path of life alone—he follows closely in the foot steps of those who are older than he, those who are leading the way. Theirs is the age of initiation—as you fathers and as you men of Cameron who are not fathers do—so do the boys of Cameron do. The responsibility for the youth of this city rests entirely on the men of this city.

It's hard to teach old men new tricks, but men of Cameron I appeal to you for the sake of the boys, let's discard some of our worthless tricks and show the boys how worth while it is to be clean.

Lets set the right sort of example to these young fellows who have their eyes and ears open and who are often listening in while we are broadcasting. These boys at the present time are pliable clay in our hands—let us so fashion them that they will be a credit to our community as they increase in wisdom and in stature and may we hope in favor with God and with man.

Cameron Invites the Lodge to Exhibit Here cities making a total of about 130 lodges in America with a membership of about 15,000 in all.

The Sokol Union was founded in Bohemia nearly a hundred years ago. The first lodge organized in America was organized in St. Louis in 1865. The first lodge instituted in Bohemia was in the city of Prague. The Sokols associated themselves together for physical training and the organization was a protest against the system of education then fostered by the Hapsburgs which provided no attractions for the vigorous physical manhood of medieval Bohemia.

It is said that after the world war was ended the Sokols while not engaging in actual warfare saved Bohemia from rule of the Bolsheviks by reason of their number and fitness for service. The Sokols were the first to volunteer in the war there and among the first to go in answer to America's call in the world war.

Around the Sokol as a national institution in Bohemia has developed a character of physical training that not only proved individually beneficial but lifted the standard of citizenship.

The Sokol at Buckholts was organized after three months of training given the young men, women and children by Prof. Joza Havranek and Mrs. Havranek, both of whom have been engaged in the work for about 3 years in this country. They came from Bohemia. They have been in Texas about 8 months and have a Sokol lodge at Seaton also. Prof. Havranek in Bohemia was a professor of Geography and History in the normal schools before taking up the promotion of physical education through the Sokol Union.

The following officers have been named for the Buckholts lodge:

John Stasa, president; Joe Zajicek, vice president; W. E. Kuzel, secretary; E. J. Kadlecik, treasurer; Antone Hamusek, commander.

The lodge will meet on the first Sunday in each month and weekly exercises will be held on Tuesday and Friday of each week. The lodge usually holds one big exhibition each year. During the months of the year the lodge at various times will have home talent plays and will promote other social entertainments.

The Sokols maintain discipline and all are eligible for the courses and for membership. One of the essential requirements of the Sokol is that he must be a naturalized citizen of America or have taken out papers to become a citizen.

The Sokols will teach the children to read and write and speak Bohemian language in addition to their English.

Judge Chas. Chernosky of Houston delivered an address at the close of the exercises. He was formerly county judge of Fort Bend county. He praised the Bohemian population of the country for their loyalty to America in the war and for their good citizenship at all times. He congratulated Buckholts Sokol lodge for its work and the entertainment and urged the people to take their ambitions for better education higher and go to the colleges and universities.

The date for the Sokol entertainment in Cameron has not been arranged but will be arranged when the committee meets with the lodge officers at Buckholts.

Miss Hazel Thomas and W. H. Bailey Are Elected

ed Miss Thomas. Mr. Kidd for Miss Thomas conducted the proceedings in court, questioning the witnesses.

When the trial opened Monday the court room quickly filled up with a large number of Klansmen in the audience but the anti-Klan people predominated. There was a noticeable decline in attendance on the part of Klansmen Tuesday but the court room continued to be crowded.

In the beginning Morrison and Camp representing Critchfield and Key filed pleadings before the court in which it was urged that inasmuch as the matter is now before the supreme court the court here is without jurisdiction. This pleading was overruled.

Disclaimer Filed.

The counsel for Critchfield and Key then filed a disclaimer in court in behalf of their clients setting out that Critchfield and Key had resigned from the board and their resignation accepted; alleging they did not claim or want the office. In considering the disclaimer the court held that Critchfield and Key were no longer parties to the suit. This ended their connection with the case and also the connection of Mr. Morrison with the case.

Mr. Morrison in filing the disclaimer was emphatic in his demand that none of the costs of the suit be taxed against his clients. O. L. Kidd, counsel for Miss Thomas assured the court and Mr. Morrison that so far as counsel for Miss Thomas was concerned Critchfield and Key should be relieved of any cost. Mr. Kidd invited the participation of Mr. Morrison and associate Mr. Camp in the case but their connection ceased when the judge approved the disclaimer. Records at the district clerk's office show the total cost in the case to have been only $38.35.

Mr. Morrison in a statement concerning the case said that he represented Key and Critchfield in so far as their individual interests were concerned and in their disclaimer and under the ruling of the court his connection with the case ceased. His connection with the litigation ended before the case was heard in court, the pleadings and disclaimer being presented when the session opened. Mr. Morrison, having no further connection with the case remained at intervals through the day as a spectator.

Mr. Camp representing H. H. Gaston was granted privilege by the court to examine the ballots and the returns to protect the interests of his client.

Ballots Counted.

Some relief was felt by the Klan section of the crowd as the votes, as taken from the box were counted and the tally corresponded with the returns made by the school board. This relief was short lived for immediately counsel for Miss Thomas called a witness to the stand and began taking testimony regarding the ballots cast by each voter. The ballots had been assorted and 74 of those making affidavit were examined. The first 27 to testify with one exception said the ballots cast by them had been forged so as to appear to have been cast against Miss Thomas.

After the ballots were shown to tally with the report counsel for Miss Thomas then resorted to the affidavits to prove fraud had been practiced.

So far only one indictment has been returned by the grand jury. H. H. Gaston, a close observer of proceedings at the court Monday and Tuesday has been indicted.

Same Hand Writing

What was considered the most sensational testimony was that given by H. M. Hefley, president of the Texas State Bank & Trust Company who testified that 41 of the forged ballots had been forged in the same hand writing.

Miss Thomas sat at the right of the counsel table throughout the two days of the trial. Close to her and assisting in the prosecution of the case was G. R. Varner and S. R. Cochran.

Miss Thomas was congratulated by many spectators when her right to the office was decided by the court. Mr. Kidd also received congratulations along with other attorneys who have conducted a 3 months court fight in the interest of their client.
